CNN producer note

weddingchick is the daughter of the light master behind this 90,000-light, multi-household, music-dancing spectacular. The show is controlled centrally at Jerry Ludy's home in Columbus, Georgia. The light show features battling snowmen and light strings connecting the homes. Tune in to 90.1 FM to hear the music; it took Jerry 3 weeks to program each song. Donations go to charity.

iReport —

Located in Columbus, Georgia. Over 90,000 computerized lights dance in sync to holiday music via your car radio tuned to 90.1 FM. All wire frames are handmade and created by Jerry Ludy. A 35 foot Santa and Reindeer set adorn the roof. Santa tosses presents into the chimney, then tosses them behind him, they bounce off a trampoline, and into the neighbor's chimney. Three snowmen have a snowball fight with snowballs flying over your car! A donation box is on site to support the Make-A-Wish® Foundation.
